

WHY?

- Does a politician need to spend crores of rupees to win an election?
- A student studies all through the year to pass an examination; a sports person practice for years to win a medal, while a politician needs just 15 days of campaigning to win a seat?
- Does a politician not find time to visit his constituency even once during his five year term?
- Is it necessary for a leader from Delhi to campaign for a local candidate, if he has a good connect with his constituency?
- Is it even necessary for a candidate with decades of experience to campaign, if he has done anything good for his constituency?
- Is there no clear idea on who will get the B-form till the last moment?
- Does the candidate on winning elections under one party, shift loyalty to another party with different ideologies? Is it not letting the voters down?

ZERO BUDGET POLITICS is an earnest attempt to seek answers to these questions, introspect and find solutions to these malignant issues.
